Night Bathing Much Enjoyed at Ocean Grove.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 2 (Special) —An army of tourists, driven from their city homes by the intense heat, arrived this week. Night bathing was permitted in Ocean Grove, and the innovation was greatly appreciated by business men who do not reach their seaside homes until late in the afternoon. The hot wave was responsible for the abandonment of a number of scheduled social events at the hotels, where the guests, in negligee to the season of the cool plasmas.

After being feted in Piking, Mr. Reynolds returned southward toward Chang-Sia. By special favor he made the trip from the capital to Hankow in four days, the best previous time having been six days.

Two interviews were granted Mr. Reynolds, and our two missionaries were invited to dine with the Governor and his American guest. As giving an insight into such interviews, Mr. Cage writes: "We could not have had a better man

YALE AND CHINA.

Steps to Establish Educational Institution in Flowery Kingdom.

New-Haven, Conn., July 22 (Special).-The news item which appeared in the press a few days ago to the effect that permission had been granted to Yale by the Chinese government to secure land in Chang-Sha, Province of Hu-Nan, for educational purposes, merely touches on the conclusion to what American educators regard | the living." the Festival Chorus of three hundred voices, led us an extremely important venture of an Amerby Tali Esen Morgan. The Soloists were Mme. ican university in the Far East. Details have Jeanette Ferandez, soprano, Reed Miller, tenor, now come to New-Haven which show the unusual and Henri G. Scott, ha so. This evening an onjoyable general concert was given by the combined around traditional Chinese animosity to Western educational invasion. Incidentally, the part played in the negotiations by a New-York man, James Reynolds, Yale, '84, who was secretary to Mayor Low in the latter's official term in New-

Yale has an educational mission now in operof Mr. Morgan, there will be a musical service, ation, which has for its purpose the establishment of a college at the heart of a Chinese capital where such advantages have not before been allowed. Yale chose the provincial and antiforeigner capital, Hu-Nan. No missionary had, up to that time, ever sought an interview with the Governor of Hu-Nan. The province had for twenty years been a hotbed of opposition to foreigners, and it has only been possible since 1900 for a foreigner to reside in the district in peace. The Vale men went to Dr. Frank Keller, '92, who was the first foreigner to live in Hu-Nan, and who had just emerged from involuntary retirement of a month in order to save his life. With his advice the Yale men went to the Commissioner of Education and met with an icy recep-tion. To the commissioner's surprise and chagrin the Governor gave the Yale men a hearty welcome and ordered a reception for the following day. As showing some of the ceremonials foreigners have to go through with in meeting Chinese officials in educational work the following is quoted from a Yale man's letter to "The Alumni Weekly," of Yale, about this re-

One who knows nothing of Chinese red tape and the Giympus-like seclusion of China's governors can have no idea of the nervousness of this announcement to a reception. Special visiting cards, each eight inches high by some eighteen in width, all most marvellously inscribed and folded, had been prepared; the effquette of court had to be rehearsed, and sedan chairs of exactly the right form had to be secured. We found his excellency in the innermost structure of a great labyrinth of buildings, which was reached after passing through long rows of soldiers and officials. The Governor proved very gental and was greatly interested in Yale's educational scheme. We had considered ourselves signally favored to have an audience with his excellency, but what was our surprise when he proposed a return call. Such condescension praved of unheard-of interest, and led to a more anxious day than the one of the visit. Dr. Keller's home was the place of the meeting. The resit of the two calls would have been of great value had it not been that the Empress Dowager promoted the Governor to be president of the Imperial Board of Revenue.

his excellency, but what was our surprise when he proposed a return call. Such condescension praved of unheard-of interest, and led to a more anxious day than the one of the visit. Dr. Keller's home was the place of the meeting. The result of the two calls would have been of great value had it not been that the Empress Dowager promoted the Governor to be president of the Imperial Board of Revenue.

Last April the Yale educational missionaries had a series of even more important interviews with the present Governor, the well known Manchu, Tuan Fang. This man, by his friendling rise and bravery, had saved the lives of many missionaries in Shen-Si in their escape from his capital, the asylum of the Emperor and Empress Dowager in 1900. "The Alumni Weekly's" correspondent says:

These two interviews were granted to car missionaries, Gage and Seabury, at the time of the visit of James Reynolds. '84, formerly secretary, Mr. Reynolds did the honors of New-York's Fire Department. Later a badge. The prince of the cart of of box came around and proved to be about four feet by three in size.

"All this time nothing had been said about the Yale college in China. Tiffin was partly over when the Governor asked Mr. Reynolds why he was visiting China and Chang-Sha. This gave him his chance. He launched in boldly, and the Governor was much interested. He gave us much good advice, especially as to the need of a bread, rather than a specialized, training at the present time. Then the Governor asked if we had found any land that suited us. We said we had a plece in mind. He replied: 'When you know what you want come to me and I will see that you get it."

When one remembers how bitterly anti-foreign this province still is in some respects, the singular favor shown to Yale representatives is both remarkable and prophetic of a still wider interest and influence when our college is established. Mr. Reynolds says of the situation at Chang-Sha: "My entire experience in China has attend in deeply. Only Every has made as unaccustomed to the climate and so much the more susceptible to its ill effect. Before the route was decided upon many surveys were made, and the men, naval a licers and others, engaged in this work were exposed to all conditions of weather. But through the universal and proper use of the macine daily as a precautionary measure the mortality was no greater than among rain like employ in other localities. Out of a little more than six thousand white men employed in the construction of the Panama Railroad there were only 293 deaths, and some of these were the result of other than climatic causes.

The whole world is indebted to the chinchona tree, from which quinine is made. Who could have foretold that this tree, a native of the mountainous forests of South America, would be of such importance in the advance of civilization and Christianity?

Its safe transportation from one side of the world to the other und the success attained in converting a wild art of a cultivated plant and naturalizing it reads like a romance. One of the strange things about quinine is that it is not used as a medicine in the practice of the native physicians of Peru, Ecuador or Colombia.

The native Indians did not even know of its curative property till enlightened by the Span-before the strange things and the property sill enlightened by the Span-before the property sill enlightened by the Span-before the strange things and the property till enlightened by the Span-before the strange things and the success attained in the property sill enlightened by the Span-before the strange things and the success attained in the success attained in the success attained in the strange things about quinine is that it is not used as a medicine in the property sill enlightened by the Span-before the strange things and the success attained in the success attained i
